

Announcing the new name behind your water and waste water services.

Much has changed with the restructuring of South East Queensland's water industry.
But for the cities and townships of Brisbane, Ipswich, Lockyer Valley, Scenic Rim and Somerset council areas, not so much will change.

At the moment your water and wastewater services are delivered by your local council, but they'll soon be delivered by Queensland Urban Utilities, who will be jointly owned by all five councils. Brisbane will begin operating under the new name from November, with other areas starting from July 2010.

This means you'll be seeing a separate water account and a new name on the uniforms of our workers. But we're still the same people, who are just as dedicated to delivering water and wastewater services to your home as we've always been.

www.urbanutilities.com.au

An initiative of

Dedicated to a better Brisbane

